complaint of a College Manager. LITTLE ROCK, AFR , July 30 .- The first LITTLE ROCH, AFE, July 30.—The first steps in a sensational libel suit were begun Wednesday by the arrest of Julian T. Bailey and E. A. Fulton, both colored, publishers of the Sun, a weekly paper devoted to the interests of the colored people, and published at Little Rock. The arrest was made by Sheriff Worthen, on warrants from Helena, procured by Mr. Calvin Clark, manager of Southland College, near Helena, an institution endowed ege, near Helena, an institution endowed by the Quakers. Messrs. Fulton and has been made quite ill by the notoriety he achieved through the discovery of his scandalous relations with the wife of a perminent Radical politician. It is until the 4th of August, to answer to the charge perminent Radical politician. It is understood he has, on this account, abaudoned his projected stumping tour through Ireland. His close personal friends are endeavoring to induce him to the 4th of July and one on the 11th o if Sir Charles can muster enough courage to undergo such an ordeal. There are rumors of other candals of a similar nature concerning him now becoming very numerous.

"Jupiter," and giving his address as Varner, Ark., makes a number of very serious charges against Clark, which, if proven, will uterly destroy his character. It charges him with robbery and with immorality in the school, and in language more vigorous than elegant de-mands his removal from the institution. The arti les are quite long and the writer presents his narrative with considerable vigor. He and the publishers with have a chance to prove them. Clark has begun the criminal prosecution agains them all, and employed some of the bes legal talent in Helena to conduct the case Messrs. IN MEMORIAM. Valerie Coleman,

After a brief il nessof only two days, of congestion, this derline, little girl, aged fire years and twis days, and the or ly dengliter of our exteemed citizens. Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Coleman, passed pacefully away in the working of July 21, 1885. She was petied and indiffed by fished pacents, relatives and riends, and possessed all the winning graces to charm those whom she met. It seemed that her future was truly a bright one, and the highest hopes of loving parents were foundly indulged in. But she sleeps now in Elmwood; she is gone from this word forever, far beyond the view of those who loved her here, but memory's sweet recollection will forever clins foodly around the darling ange', though she be the center of that bright angelic through she be the center of that bright angelic through she be the center of that bright angelic through the horizon and burning tears and skill of countent physicians could not restore this precious little darling. God had claimed her as his Brighter, fairer, far than the living, With no trace of agony or pain, Robed in ever asting beauty.

We will surely see her again.
